

RETIREMENT BENEFITS & OPPORTUNITIES IN MEXICO

Mexico can be a great place for retirees to spend their golden years, and there's a lot of information to consider. With many pensioners and fixed-income people looking for ways to make their budgets provide a lifestyle they deserve, moving to Mexico is a frequently-discussed topic.

Its no secret that the cost of living is considerably lower in Mexico than it is in Canada or the United States, but how does it impact a monthly budget? The three major costs of living for a retiree are housing, medical costs, and food. In Mexico, the costs for these items are greatly reduced in Mexico than they would be if you stayed in Canada or the US.

In upcoming newsletters, featured financial planners will look in detail at how retirees in Mexico save money each month on the necessities of life compared to other countries.

Safety in Mexico

There is a lot of information coming out about safety concerns in Mexico, with much of the information being misleading and not fully accurate. Granted, there is a safety concern in some parts of Mexico, however, these locations are close to the US border, far from any resort town.

Retirees are typically drawn to beach towns such as Cancun, Mazatlan, or Puerto Vallarta, or Acapulco.

Puerto Vallarta and Nuevo Vallarta, home to Paradise Village, are proud to have an extremely low rate of crime, much lower than Denver, Colorado. The local police forces are highly visible in the tourist regions of Vallarta, ensuring the visitors are treated with the respect and consideration they deserve.
